Shh...Shh...the animals are sleeping.....

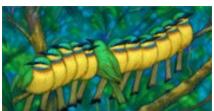

The rhythmic text and the rich illustrations in Animals are Sleeping make it the perfect naptime story or bedtime book. Its short, lyrical text provides fascinating information, such as location, position and duration of sleep of animals living in different habitats. This book shares the interesting sleeping habits of animals that live on land, in water, and fly through the air. Each new verse will help children drift off to sleep—just like the slumbering animals. The satisfying conclusion will have children reaching for this book again and again.

About the Author and Illustrator

Suzanne Slade is the author of over 50 books for children, including What's New at the Zoo? and What's the Difference? for Arbordale. She has written biographies and books on topics such as planets, atoms, backyard bugs, elements, cycles in nature and outdoor adventures. Animals are Sleeping feeds a young child's curiosity about different animals, and it provides parents with an educational and enjoyable book that children will enjoy as part of their bedtime routine. Suzanne was inspired to write this book during a Thanksgiving weekend drive past Amish farms. Her daughter pointed to a horse and announced, "You know, they sleep standing up!" Suzanne researched animal sleep behaviors and expanded the text to include the places, positions and duration that animals sleep. Suzanne lives outside Chicago with her husband, two children and a six-pound dog named Corduroy (who sleeps on his round, puffy bed near a heating vent).
