Picture Books with a Science and Math Twist

Arbordale Publishing is on a mission to inspire a love of reading and improve young children's science and math literacy through picture books. These picture books will captivate young readers in their parent's lap, at bedtime, or in the classroom. The 2-6 page For Creative Minds in the back of each book engages children in nonfiction activities. Because we take the science and math part of our mission seriously, books are vetted for accuracy by experts in the field.

What we offer:

- The STEM (science, math or nature-related) fictional stories with nonfiction facts or narrative nonfiction picture book format engages children and makes learning fun and exciting.
- All books include our signature For Creative Minds (FCM) section. This back matter makes it easy for parents to get involved.
- All books are vetted for accuracy by experts.

Teeth come in all shapes and sizes, just like their animal hosts. Some teeth are sharp to grab prey and tear apart the meat. Other teeth are flat to chew plants and some animals have both kinds to eat plants and animals. And That's the Tooth delivers unique and fun facts about animal and human teeth through engaging riddles. With hints to help solve each riddle, children will be actively involved as they giggle, guess, and learn.

Terri Fields is an award-winning author of 29 published books ranging from preschool through Young Adult Novels. In addition to And That's the Tooth, her other Arbordale titles include The Most Dangerous, Burro's Tortillas, and Tornado Tamer. Some of her other titles include Missing in the Mountains, My Father's Son, Danger in the Desert, After the Death of Anna Gonzales, and One Good Deed. She is often found in schools across the country sharing the joy that can be found in reading with children of all ages. Terri lives in Arizona.

Just like humans, animals use their homes for shelter and to raise their young. Animal homes might be easy to see, or they may be hidden (camouflaged) for protection. Some animals are great builders and other animals borrow homes that other animals have made. Different animals might just use natural places like caves or holes in trees to make a home. And some animals might even carry their home on their back! Sticks, mud, leaves, cotton, and grass are all things that animals might use to build a home. Whether by digging, spinning, building or borrowing, animal homes are as varied as the animals themselves. This is a perfect addition to Mary Holland's Animal Anatomy and Adaptations series.

 - The Horn Book Guide

When a young river otter sneaks into a zoo, she wonders if she should be more like some of the other animals she meets. She wants a trunk like the elephant or to be loud like the gorilla... By imitating and comparing herself to these other animals she learns to appreciate herself. Educational components are woven throughout this fun, read-aloud story to extend the learning, making it a perfect book for a wide variety of ages.

Weather changes daily. Sometimes it can even change from one moment to another—like a sudden storm. Weather affects our daily lives from what we wear to what outdoor activities (or lack thereof) we can do. Learning about weather and how to dress and prepare for it is an important skill to learn. Maybe even more important is the skill of observation. By asking simple questions, children become engaged and can start to observe and make correlations about the weather around them so they will understand how the weather impacts their lives.

What, Why or Where
The start of a new Arbordale series!

A series of question-asking and thought-provoking books for very young children. Anyone who has ever spent time with a young child knows how inquisitive they are. By asking open-ended questions, the books encourage children to develop observation and critical-thinking skills and opens the doors to discussions and vocabulary development.

There are several different ways to read this book to and with the young children in your life. By reading the text on the colored background, this will read just like a normal book, providing simple information. The italicized text consists of questions for you to ask the child/children. You can ask the questions about the photos in the book or on what you can see for yourselves. Each time you read the book will be different!
